The living room was a boy's room, with a giant television on the wall.